

Chicago Tribune

435 NORTH MICHIGAN AVENUE
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60611

2-2-89

TELEPHONE
(312) 222-3232

Dear Contributor:

An editor has read your story and checked the reason(s) for our not accepting it:

- ☐ It does not suit our needs. . .
- We have covered the subject recently.
- A similar story already is in our system.
- The content would not be news to our readers.
- We would re-consider a much shorter version.

☒ Other: This just did not hold my interest. Sorry,

Thank you for sending your story to the Chicago Tribune.

Cordially,

Larry Townsend

Larry Townsend
Executive Travel Editor
312-222-3999

A word about submissions: We buy only stories that can be obtained electronically. We do not type (keyboard) stories into our system. IF WE ACCEPT YOUR STORY you will be told how to send it by telephone from your computer to ours. (We also can transfer a story from an IBM or IBM-compatible disk.)

Our 1989 payment-upon-publication rates range from $100 to $350. We buy one-time publication in our primary circulation area. The Tribune accepts no responsibility for unsolicited materials--typed, photographic or electronic.

IF YOU WANT A RESPONSE or material returned, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (A 15-cent postcard will do if you don't need anything other than a prompt answer.)

January 29, 1989

Mr. Larry Townsend, Travel Editor
CHICAGO TRIBUNE
435 North Michigan Ave.
Chicago, Illinois 60611

Dear Mr. Townsend:

You said I didn't give you enough lead time on the fall piece I submitted but you invited me to try again. Hocking Hills is equally beautiful in the spring with dogwood blossoming the last of April or the first of May. Because of the unique location and climate, the flowers usually last a couple of weeks. I've lived all over the south and have never seen such a concentration of dogwood and other wildflowers as I found at Hocking Hills. The place is spectacular but very few people know about it.

I have many excellent photos to illustrate the text--including the 94-year-old basket-maker designated a national treasure by the Smithsonian Institution.

I can supply the piece on IBM compatible disc.

My work has appeared in the TRIBUNE TRAVEL section before as well as the SUN-TIMES, BEACON-NEWS, ILLINOIS ADVENTURES and many others.

Please give me a call if you'd like to see the photos.

Yours truly,
Glenna Holloway
GLENNA HOLLOWAY
913 E. Bailey Road
Naperville, IL 60565

telephone: 983-5499